Funeral services were held in Pasadena Tuesday for Frank Marsh, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marsh of 44 Pine street, Altadena, who was instantly killed in an automobile accident, July 2. Frank was born in Torrance, the family leaving here shortly after his second birthday.

Marsh was employed as master mechanic in Lewellen Iron Works, now the Columbia Steel company. A number of local people attended the services.

STEEL PLANS DISPLAY AT S. F. EXPO

A display costing a quarter of a million dollars will be U. S. Steel Corporation's contribution to the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

A contract reserving 10,830 square feet of exhibitor space in the Building of Mines, Metals and Machinery was signed this week by Ambrose N. Diehl, president of Columbia Steel company, west coast subsidiary of the nation's leading producer of steel. It is one of the largest contracts signed with the exposition, the rental being estimated at $86,640.

The appropriation of $250,000 to cover the cost of installing the steel corporation's exhibit does not include $100,000 already subscribed toward financing the fair by Columbia Steel company.

"Our largest exhibit, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, is already on display," Diehl said. "We are proud to have been the builders of the great bridge which will serve as the portals to the Golden Gate International Exposition and over which millions of visitors to 'Treasure Island' will pass."

"By our participation in the 1939 exposition we are reaffirming our faith in the growth and industrial expansion of the West."

ALL BUT ONE MWD TUNNEL COMPLETED

Completion of all tunnels on the main section of the Metropolitan aqueduct, with the exception of the San Jacinto tunnel near Banning, was announced this week when workmen placed the last concrete in the lining of the East Eagle mountain tunnel on the aqueduct.

Located north of Desert Center, and approximately 200 miles east of Los Angeles, this tunnel is one of 38, totaling 108 miles in length, that form part of the giant 392-mile Metropolitan aqueduct. Tunnel construction on the aqueduct was started in December, 1932, and the progress reports received today indicated that 104 miles of the tunnels have now been excavated and 95 miles of these have been lined with concrete and completed.

5,000 At Work

The four miles remaining to be excavated lie in the 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel, considered the most difficult and spectacular job on the aqueduct. Work is progressing rapidly on this tunnel and it is expected that it will be completed and have aqueduct water flowing thru it in 1939.

In spite of the fact that open work on the desert sections of the Metropolitan aqueduct has been suspended during the summer months because of the intense heat, more than 5,000 men are directly employed on the big job at the present time. Water district employment records show that more than 33,000 men have been directly employed on the aqueduct since construction work was started in 1932.

"Point-System" Identifies Blankets

Generations ago, when the Canadian north woods knew only the stealthy moose and step of Indians, the Hudson Bay company started trading their world-famed blankets for furs. Because little English was spoken among the French trappers and Indian tribes, the "point system" of buying and selling was devised.

The "points" or black lines near the center of each blanket served a two-fold purpose. It specified the size and weight of each blanket; and it also indicated the number of heavier pelts each would be worth. A three-point blanket brought three adult skins; a three and one-half point blanket, three adult and one small beaver skin, and a four-point blanket was worth four skins.

Miles of Yarn Used
Today, the J. C. Penney company, which sells the Hudson Bay blankets, indicates the same "point system" indicates the comparative size, weight and worth of each blanket. Only the genuine Hudson Bay blankets are marked in this fashion.

Hillman Lee, manager of the local Penney store, in announcing the advance blanket sale this week, pointed out that it takes about 20,876 yards of yarn, both warp and fill, to make a blanket. This is equivalent to 11,361 miles of yarn per blanket, 72 by 84 inches. The local store has a complete supply offering wide choice of blankets for this special sale and while the weather is not symbolic of such coverings, nevertheless the prices are especially attractive at any season, Lee declares.

Baby Black Widows Brought to Herald For Observation

Several hundred tiny young Black Widow spiders are confined where they will never do any harm while The Herald staff began an observation of the poisonous insects this week. They were brought to the office by B. P. Schroeder, of 803 Sartori avenue, who discovered the adult widow and her egg-sac in his garage last week-end. When he went to see how the widow was getting along in her fruit jar, he noticed that the sac was deflated and the infant spiders were clustered about the top of the jar. The Herald staff intends to discover how large the spiders will grow in captivity or if the adult insect will devour them as she does her mate.

REGULATE DERRICKS
Oil well derricks must not be erected within 500 feet of any public assembly buildings in unincorporated territory hereafter, under the provisions of an ordinance adopted this week by the county board of supervisors.
